FRIG COLLECTION

We know where to go.

A 34-foot Ribco chase boat, and a gulet that deserves one.

De Love is a 47-metre gulet with the kind of support vessel most yachts twice her price don't carry. A 34-foot Ribco with twin 300 HP outboards runs alongside as a dedicated chase boat — fast enough for water sports, big enough for shore excursions with half the group, and powerful enough to reach a distant restaurant before the gulet has weighed anchor.

Seven cabins below deck: one master and six VIP suites, arranged symmetrically along a central corridor. Fourteen guests, each with en-suite bathrooms and air conditioning. The 10-metre beam and shallow 2.13-metre draft give her the interior volume of a much larger vessel and the ability to anchor close to shore in bays that deeper boats can't reach.

A crew of ten — the joint-largest in the fleet — handles everything from the galley to the toy garage: two jet skis, a Waydoo Seabob, water ski, wakeboard, SUP, kayak, a four-seat Big Mable, ringo, and an E-foil available on request. Twin 750 HP Volvo engines give her the power to reposition quickly between destinations.

Forty-seven metres of gulet, ten metres wide, with a 34-foot Ribco chase boat running alongside.

The saloon — wide enough for fourteen, finished in warm timber, and connected to the aft deck.

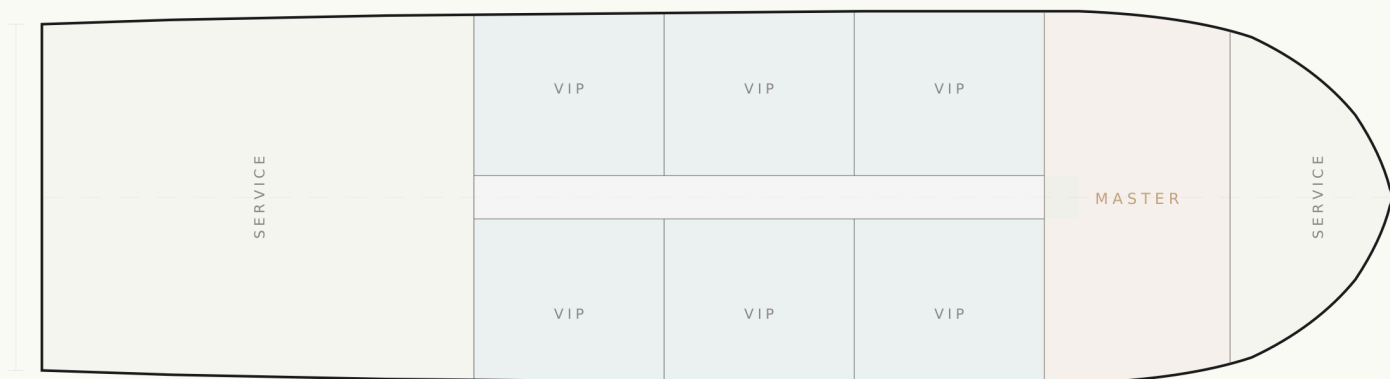

The master cabin — full beam, en-suite, and the most private space below deck.

LAYOUT

How the space works.

De Love's 10-metre beam gives her seven cabins with the kind of width that most gulets can't match. The master cabin sits at one end with full-beam proportions, while six VIP suites are arranged symmetrically along the central corridor — three on each side. Each cabin has its own en-suite bathroom and air conditioning. Service areas are positioned at both ends, fully separated from guest spaces. Ten crew in dedicated quarters.

MASTER CABIN

Full-beam master with king bed, en-suite bathroom, air conditioning, and the widest footprint aboard. Positioned for maximum privacy and natural light.

6 VIP CABINS

Six VIP suites arranged symmetrically — three per side. Each with double bed, en-suite bathroom, individual climate control, and the same standard of finish as the master.
